ABSTRACT

This report provides data on racial/ethnic diversity within the Oregon University System (OUS) in regard to student enrollment, graduation, and retention trends. Five-year total (undergraduate and graduate) enrollment trends within the OUS indicate that representation of students of color increased from 11.5 percent of enrollment in fall 1993 to 12.4 percent of enrollment in fall 1998. Students of color received 8.4 percent of all degrees awarded during 1992-93 and 11 percent of all degrees awarded during 1997-98. Total graduation rates during the period from 1992-93 to 1997-98 increased proportionately for American Indians/Alaskan Natives, Asian/Pacific Americans, European Americans, and Hispanics/Latinos, while those for African Americans remained steady. Six-year retention rates for cohorts of first-time freshmen students who entered OUS institutions in fall 1987 and fall 1992 indicate enhanced persistence among African American, American Indian/Alaskan Native, and European American students. The six-year retention rates for Asian/Pacific American students declined, and the rates for Hispanics/Latinos remained essentially stable. Three appendixes provide statistical data on OUS regular enrollment, degrees awarded, and retention of first-time freshmen by racial/ethnic group. (MDM)

Executive Summary

The Oregon University System (OUS) continues to make progress in relation to the matriculation, persistence, and graduation of students. However, the progress is more significant for some groups of students than for others.

Five-year total (undergraduate and graduate) enrollment trends within the OUS indicate that the representation of students of color increased from 11.5% of the enrollment in fall 1993 to 12.4% of the enrollment in fall 1998. There were relatively slight increases or decreases within each racial/ethnic group. Asian/Pacific American student enrollment increased proportionately from 5.9% in fall 1993 to 6.3% in fall 1998, and Hispanic/Latino student enrollment increased proportionately from 2.7% in fall 1993 to 3.2% in fall 1998. A slight proportionate increase in total enrollment — from 1.3% in fall 1993 to 1.4% in fall 1998 — was experienced among American Indian/Alaskan Native students. Slight declines in proportionate enrollment were experienced among African American students (from 1.6% in fall 1993 to 1.5% in fall 1998) and European American students (from 74.7% in fall 1993 to 73.5% in fall 1998).

Students of color received 8.4% of all degrees awarded during 1992–93, and 11% of all degrees awarded during 1997–98. Total graduation rates during the period from 1992–93 to 1997–98 increased proportionately for American Indians/Alaskan Natives (from 1.1% to 1.2% of degrees awarded), Asian/Pacific Americans (from 4.2% to 5.7% of degrees awarded), European Americans (from 73.5% to 74.4%), and Hispanics/Latinos (from 1.8% to 2.8% of degrees awarded). Proportionate graduation rates for African Americans during this period remained at 1.3%.

Six-year retention rates for cohorts of first-time freshman students who entered OUS institutions in fall 1987 and fall 1992 indicate enhanced persistence among African American, American Indian/Alaskan Native, and European American students. The six-year retention rates for Asian/Pacific American students declined, and the rates for Hispanics/Latinos remained essentially stable for both cohorts. Nevertheless, six-year retention rates for the fall 1992 freshman cohort, by race/ethnicity, range from a low of 39.2% to a high of 59.7%, suggesting a need for enhanced retention among all OUS students. The report includes a recommendation that a work group be convened to (1) undertake analyses to better understand the variable retention rates among many groups of students, and (2) consider additional strategies for addressing retention concerns that will further enhance existing institutional efforts.

Student Racial/Ethnic Diversity: Trends in Enrollment, Graduation, and Retention

Introduction

The Oregon University System (OUS) continues to place emphasis upon its progress concerning the rates at which students matriculate, persist, and graduate. One component in these efforts relates to the continuing progress made throughout the System in relation to students of color. Enhanced diversity, and its benefit to all within postsecondary environments, remains an important consideration throughout higher education. During summer 1998, the Ford Foundation Campus Diversity Initiative sponsored a study, conducted by DYG, Inc., to understand the attitudes of American voters pertaining to diversity in higher education. (Overview Report, Ford Foundation Campus Diversity Initiative, autumn 1998) Selected findings of that study are as follows:

Diversity as a Social Issue and a Benefit for Society

91% agreed — "The global economy makes it more important than ever for all of us to understand people who are different than ourselves."

94% agreed — "America's growing diversity makes it more important than ever for all of us to understand people who are different than ourselves."

97% agreed — "In the next generations, people will need to get along with people who are not like them."

Goals of Higher Education

67% viewed the higher education goal of preparing people to function in a more diverse society as very important.

69% viewed the higher education goal of preparing people to function in a more diverse workforce as very important.

Diversity Recruitment and Campus Interaction

66% thought that "colleges and universities should take explicit steps to insure diversity in the student body."

75% agreed that college students do "often separate themselves into groups by race." Yet, 90% indicated that despite this separating, "it is still worthwhile to recruit a diverse student body."

These survey findings illustrate the continued importance of addressing issues associated with diversity throughout higher education institutions.

The following analyses include trends in OUS enrollment in the five-year period from fall 1993 to fall 1998, trends in OUS graduation rates in the period from 1992–93 to 1997–98, and six-year retention rates for first-time freshman cohorts entering OUS institutions in fall 1987 and fall 1992.

Enrollment

As illustrated in Figure 1, the overall enrollment representation of students of color within OUS institutions increased from 6,654 (11.5%) in fall 1993 to 7,540 (12.4%) in fall 1998. The fall 1998 proportionate representation compares favorably with the 1997 representation of 11.2% of Oregon public high school graduates who were students of color. Undergraduate students of color represented 5,802 (12.3%) of undergraduates in fall 1993 and had increased to 6,568 (13.4%) of undergraduates in fall 1998. Graduate students of color represented 852 (7.6%) of graduate students in fall 1993 and had increased to 972 (8.7%) in fall 1998. Enrollment rates during fall 1993 and fall 1998 for nonresident aliens and for students with unknown race/ethnicity, as well as overviews by race/ethnicity for each OUS institution, are included in Appendices 1a and 1b.

African Americans

- African American total enrollment increased numerically, but declined proportionately, from 909 (1.6%) in fall 1993 to 929 (1.5%) in fall 1998.
- African American undergraduate enrollment increased numerically, but remained constant proportionately, from 761 (1.6%) in fall 1993 to 774 (1.6%) in fall 1998.
- African American graduate enrollment increased from 148 (1.3%) in fall 1993 to 155 (1.4%) in fall 1998.

American Indians/Alaskan Natives

- American Indian/Alaskan Native total enrollment increased from 766 (1.3%) in fall 1993 to 828 (1.4%) in fall 1998.
- American Indian/Alaskan Native undergraduate enrollment increased from 674 (1.4%) in fall 1993 to 732 (1.5%) in fall 1998.
- American Indian/Alaskan Native graduate enrollment increased from 92 (0.8%) in fall 1993 to 96 (0.9%) in fall 1998.

Asian/Pacific Americans

- Asian/Pacific American total enrollment increased from 3,425 (5.9%) in fall 1993 to 3,829 (6.3%) in fall 1998.
- Asian/Pacific American undergraduate enrollment increased from 3,056 (6.5%) in fall 1993 to 3,375 (6.9%) in fall 1998.
- Asian/Pacific American graduate enrollment increased from 369 (3.3%) in fall 1993 to 454 (4.0%) in fall 1998.

European Americans

- European American total enrollment increased numerically, but declined proportionately, from 43,433 (74.7%) in fall 1993 to 44,413 (73.5%) in fall 1998.
- European American undergraduate enrollment increased numerically, but declined proportionately, from 36,026 (76.6%) in fall 1993 to 36,775 (74.8%) in fall 1998.
- European American graduate enrollment increased from 7,407 (66.4%) in fall 1993 to 7,638 (68.1%) in fall 1998.

Hispanics/Latinos

- Hispanic/Latino total enrollment increased from 1,554 (2.7%) in fall 1993 to 1,954 (3.2%) in fall 1998.
- Hispanic/Latino undergraduate enrollment increased from 1,311 (2.8%) in fall 1993 to 1,687 (3.4%) in fall 1998.
- Hispanic/Latino graduate enrollment increased from 243 (2.2%) in fall 1993 to 267 (2.4%) in fall 1998.

Graduation

As illustrated in Figure 2, some increases were exhibited in the numbers of degrees awarded to students of color within OUS institutions during 1992–93 and 1997–98. The total number of degrees received by all students of color during 1997–98 was 1,410 (11% of all degrees). This total is up from 1,102 (8.4%) degrees received by students of color during 1992–93. Appendix 2 provides detailed graduation data, by race and institution, and includes information pertaining to degrees received by nonresident aliens and students of unknown race/ethnicity.

Only degrees are reported in this figure. Postbaccalaureate and teacher education certificates are excluded.

African Americans

• African Americans received 170 (1.3%) of the OUS degrees awarded during 1992–93. During 1997–98, African Americans received 163 (1.3%) of the total degrees awarded.

American Indians/Alaskan Natives

 American Indians/Alaskan Natives received 144 (1.1%) of the OUS degrees awarded during 1992-93. During 1997-98, American Indians/Alaskan Natives received 160 (1.2%) of the total degrees awarded.

Asian/Pacific Americans

• Asian/Pacific Americans received 555 (4.2%) of the OUS degrees awarded during 1992–93. During 1997–98, Asian/Pacific Americans received 732 (5.7%) of the total degrees awarded.

European Americans

• European Americans received 9,707 (73.5%) of the OUS degrees awarded during 1992–93. During 1997–98, European Americans received 9,524 (74.4%) of the total degrees awarded.

Hispanics/Latinos

• Hispanics/Latinos received 233 (1.8%) of the OUS degrees awarded during 1992–93. During 1997–98, Hispanics/Latinos received 355 (2.8%) of the total degrees awarded.

Six-Year Retention Rates

Figures 3a and 3b illustrate six-year retention rates, by race/ethnicity, for first-time freshmen who entered OUS institutions in fall 1987 and fall 1992. These data include students transferring within OUS institutions after initial enrollment. Appendices 3a and 3b provide tables illustrating the progress for all groups by race/ethnicity and also includes information pertaining to nonresident aliens and students for whom race/ethnicity classification is unknown.

African Americans

- 1987-88 Cohort (fall 1987 through fall 1993). Of the 111 African American students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1987, 8 (7.2%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 33 (29.7%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 70 (63.1%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1993. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1987-88 African American freshman cohort was 36.9%.
- 1992-93 Cohort (fall 1992 through fall 1998). Of the 108 African American students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1992, 7 (6.5%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 37 (34.3%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 64 (59.3%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1998. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1992-93 African American freshman cohort was 40.8%.

American Indians/Alaskan Natives

- 1987-88 Cohort (fall 1987 through fall 1993). Of the 76 American Indian/Alaskan Native students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1987, 7 (9.2%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 20 (26.3%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 49 (64.5%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1993. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1987-88 American Indian/Alaskan Native freshman cohort was 35.5%.
- 1992-93 Cohort (fall 1992 through fall 1998). Of the 97 American Indian/Alaskan Native students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1992, 7 (7.2%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 31 (32%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 59 (60.8%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1998. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1992-93 American Indian/Alaskan Native freshman cohort was 39.2%.

Asian/Pacific Americans

- 1987-88 Cohort (fall 1987 through fall 1993). Of the 390 Asian/Pacific American students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1987, 33 (8.5%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 213 (54.6%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 144 (36.9%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1993. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1987-88 Asian/Pacific American freshman cohort was 63.1%.
- 1992-93 Cohort (fall 1992 through fall 1998). Of the 538 Asian/Pacific American students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1992, 38 (7.1%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 283 (52.6%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 217 (40.3%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1998. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1992-93 Asian/Pacific American freshman cohort was 59.7%.

European Americans

- 1987-88 Cohort (fall 1987 through fall 1993). Of the 5,676 European American students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1987, 340 (6%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 2,779 (49%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 2,557 (45%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1993. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1987-88 European American freshman cohort was 55%.
- 1992-93 Cohort (fall 1992 through fall 1998). Of the 5,225 European American students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1992, 298 (5.7%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 2,790 (53.4%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 2,137 (40.9%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1998. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1992–93 European American freshman cohort was 59.1%.

Hispanics/Latinos

- 1987-88 Cohort (fall 1987 through fall 1993). Of the 116 Hispanic/Latino students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1987, 4 (3.4%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 60 (51.7%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 52 (44.8%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1993. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1987-88 Hispanic/Latino freshman cohort was 55.1%.
- 1992-93 Cohort (fall 1992 through fall 1998). Of the 207 Hispanic/Latino students entering the OUS as first-time freshmen in fall 1992, 19 (9.2%) were continuing their studies within the OUS, 95 (45.9%) had graduated from OUS institutions, and 93 (44.9%) had stopped out of OUS institutions during the six-year period ending fall 1998. The overall six-year retention (continuing and graduation) rate for the 1992-93 Hispanic/Latino freshman cohort was 55.1%.

Conclusion and Recommendation

There are limitations in the conclusions that can be drawn from summaries of data associated with trends in enrollment, graduation, and retention rates. Although it is evident that there have been advances in the OUS in relation to the enrollment, graduation, and retention of students, the advances are inconsistent across race/ethnicity categories. The reasons for the disparities among groups of students are not readily discernible from such analyses. Of particular note are data concerning retention rates, especially among African American and American Indian/Alaskan Native students, within the OUS. An OUS work group should be convened to (1) undertake analyses to better understand the variable retention rates among many groups of students, and (2) consider additional strategies for addressing retention concerns that will further enhance existing institutional efforts.
